THE "TREATY PORTS OF CHIN - & JAPAN." AND "NOTES AND QUERIES ON CHINA AND JAPAN. EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS.

(From the 'Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of 'Notes and Queries,", a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan' are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it wil be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better known in India.

(From the ('Straits Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press bad made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on thina and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted wit apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

(From the "London Examiner." May

16, 1868.) 'This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan" is intended as guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account; historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys; and the elaborate maps and plaus, with which the work abounds, considerably enhance its value.

We have thus given in outline some the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating o Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghae, and the remainder of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to European readers respecting its history, public buildings, and general characteristics, that we would fain transfer them to our columns A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places. In the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found: a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography and limits, which will be found particularly nteresting as throwing a considerable light on a part of the world so long entirely, and still comparatively, unknown to Europeans.

The descriptions of Nagasaki, Yedo, Yokohama, and the other Treaty Ports of Japan, are as elaborate and entertaining as those of the Chinese ports. A copious index and a useful appendix containing many hints and much appropriate advice to travellers and others, is also included in the volume. The entire work affords a vast amount of information, pleasantly written, and we doubt not will be perused with interest by many who will never visit the Kastern seas.

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 18, 1868.

THE TELEGRAPH AND CHINA ALTHOUGH the subject of Telegraphic communication between Europe and the East continues to attract considerable attention from the home papers, we cannot find that the slightest interest is manifested in the subject by the leading commercial houses in China. Their nonresponse, through their representatives the Chambers of Commerce, to the various propositions which have been made can be accounted for upon one of two grounds only. Either they do not care about seeing an improved medium of communication established, or they are absolutely opposed to any such project. We can quite understand that the very first houses, who have at their command quick running steamers which enable them to obtain exclusive information sooner than the public at large, are not violently desirous of seeing equal chances afforded to less moneyed men; but, judging from analogy, we are loth to believe that they would put any obstacle in the way of an arrangement which would materially add to the benefit foreigners in China generally. whatever their opinions, they will do better to speak out than to induce by In a despatch dated from the General Poststudied neglect the belief that they are actuated solely by mercenary motives in any reference to the prolongation of the existing line as far as Galle, we mus confess to feeling extreme surprise that the mercantile community of China have not by their representations added weight to the arguments so often adduced in favour of a more complete and reliable communication over the existent line. The constant faults in the Red Sea and Kurrachee route have formed the subject of strong remonstrances at home. strange to say, while the merchants of London and Liverpool most interested in the China trade have been foremost in drawing attention to existing evils, on the score of the inconvenience experienced by them in their commercial transactions, their clients, agents, and principals, at this end of the route, have preserved a curious silence. We, of at Hongkong? course, put Hongkong out of the question. The Chamber which did not see that the coolie traffic of China lay within the scope of its discussions, is scarcely likely to interest itself in such trivial matters as telegraphs. But from the better than a palpable indifference to a question which has within the last few years risen to be one of all-absorbing international importance. China with but 24 hours between its residents and friends at home will be no more like the China of to-day, than our position now is like that of the adventurers who visited its shores a hundred years ago, and from whom a letter could searcely reach home once a year. We do not undertake to dogmatise about the grand results which may or may not accrue from extended telegraphic communication, but we submit that the indifference manifested to the discussion of the question reflects disgrace upon the British communities in Chine and Japan.

Putting out of the question, however,

WE direct the special attention of our readers to the interesting communication to the N. C. Daily News from a correspondent at Chinkeang, which we republish in another column. The event has perfectly vindicated the soundness of the views which we, and a large proportion of our fellow-countrymen in China, have held regarding the course our policy should take. We congratulate Mr Sew. ard upon the very excellent taste and good sense he has shown in refusing to act as "mediator" between the Chinese and the justly-offended British authori. ties. The words of the correspondent we quote are well descriptive of the positions of Great Britain and America in China. We trust that the good sense thus displayed will continue to prevail with our American friends, who we believe are sincerely annoyed at the dis-H. & S. A MEETING of the Logislative Council will be held on Saturday next, at noon.

A PRIVATE but reliable correspondent informs us by the mail just arrived that Mr. Wade is to succeed Sir Rutherford Alcock as Minister at Pekin.—Recorder. We are informed of an incident strikingly llustrative of the manner in which the Chinese Authorities regard the relative status of the native and foreign element in the Burlingame Mission. It seems that Col. Poston was commusioned to hand Prince Kung a picture representing Mr. Burlin. game and his suite; but that, instead of receiving it graciously, His Royal Highness handed it back to his attendants in a great huff, asking how it was that Mr. Burlingame was represented sitting while the Chinese were standing. -Ibid.

THE Melbourne Argus of Oct. 12, contains the following paragraph :-- In November. 1866, James Martin, the junior and only surviving partner of the firm of Mesars Young and Martin, merchants, of Melbourne, sailed away from this port in a surreptitious manner in the barque Stag (belonging to the firm), leaving a number of unsatisfied debts behind, and without squaring accounts with the family of his deceased partner. A few days subsequently a rule was obtained for the sequestration of the estate of the firm. Intelligence has been recently received by Mr Moore, official assignee of the estate, that his agent at Hongkong has succeeded in obtaining possession of the vessel Stag, which arrived at the port a few days after he had received his instructions from Mr Moore. Criminal proceedings have also been taken by the agent against Captain Martin, the son of the insolvent, who was in command of the next English packet from that place." THE Captain of the Dayspring has been committed by the coroner at Williamstown, near Melbourne, on a charge of manslaughter. The vessel sailed from Hongkong with a large number of Chinese pas sengers on board, of whom about thirty died before reaching port, owing as is asserted, to the absence of proper provisions, and to the general conduct of the Captain Middleton. Mr Langdon, formerly in the police force here, was a passenger on board but at the date of the last advices was still in the hospital at Melbourne, and unable to give his evidence. pretence above stated.

As the evidence pointed chiefly against the first prisoner, who was represented to be an interpreter at No. 8 Station, the second prisoner (Bonnett & Co.'s shroff) and third prisoner (a shoe-maker) were dismissed from this charge—the Crown Prosecutor having consented to a verdict of not guilty on this charge. They, however, were in custody upon a charge of bribery in connection with the same case; record prisoner was defended by Mr Havllar.

Prisoner's defence was a bold one. He said that the money was put into his breastpocket, in order that the females might not be charged with having kept a secret brothel. There was afterwards a quarrel, and he was put out by the lokong. A witness who was called failed entirely to strengthen prisoner's case, as he contradicted every

The losses on tea imported continue enormous by reason of excessive supplies expected and the system of mock auctions which prevails. The deliveries for the port of Lundon during the past two weeks exceed 31 millions of lb. per week, at which rate the stock in bond only represents seventeen weeks' consumption. If the present pernicious system of mock auctions were resisted by importers, and the public allowed to participate in the advantage of the late heavy decline in rates, the consumption would certainly display a stimulus, and if holders could thus be encouraged to avert the impending panic by treating the market gently, the present difficulty might be tided over. But importers being at the mercy of a body of dealers who organise mock auctions at pleasure, the shearing process pursued is quietly and effectually

The late collision between her Majesty's ships Warrior and Royal Oak, when on their passage to Ireland, has formed the subject of a court-martial, and we sincerely trust to all ships of war. It cannot be expected that heavy iron clad vessels, differing in tonnage, midship section, beam, length, and immersion, ranging from 6,600 tons and 400 feet to 2,003 tons and 260 feet in length can regulate the irrespective speeds, under canvas or steam, as easily as the line-of-bat-. tle ships or frigates of the past; indeed, some of them cannot keep station when cruising without assistance from the screw. and, if a tolerably good station is kept, it only shows unremitting attention on the part of the officers of the mougrel fleet. So long as a ship in a equadron can see even indistinctly the hull or sails of the ship next her ahead, accidents seldom occur, as she can rauge up on either quarter without dauger of fouling; but when the ship shead is lost sight of through darkness, mist, heavy rain, or loss of distance, there ought to be some safe guide to the sternmost ship to correct her bearings and distance, and nothing that we know of is so certain or effectual as a bright stern light shown by her immediate leader in the line to enable her to regain her position.
